Photo	Botanical Name	Common Name	Plant Description
	Ocimum basilicum	Basil - Mammolo	A classic Italian Genovese basil with a tidy, compact habit. A superb container variety, Mammolo has been bred to have an exceptionally high leaf-to-stem ratio and a compact growth habit.
	Ocimum basilicum	Basil - Thai Siam Queen	A warm season annual; stronger-flavored basil than sweet basil w/a hint of licorice flavor; pointed leaves half the size of sweet basil, purple stems make pretty garnishes.
	Coriandrum sativum	Cilantro - Pokey Joe	Pokey has all the attractive field qualities of the more well-known "Santo" but tastes better. Slow to bolt. Great insectary plant as well, if allowed to bloom, and wonderful as an airy filler in bouquets.
	Anethum graveolens	Dill - Ambrosia	An amazingly fragrant variety of dill. Flowers are very attractive to pollinators. Heavenly in the garden and a key ingredient for many pickle recipes.
	Petroselinum crispum	Parsley - Mersin	This parsley has fine stems with delicate, fern-like leaves and a lighter flavor profile than Italian flat. Aromatic and floral up front, with a touch of celery seed pungency.
	Salvia rosmarinus	Rosemary - Rosy	Small evergreen shrub with needle-like aromatic leaves and pink or blue flowers in the summer. Perennial in mild-winter climates (USDA zones 8 +), grow in containers elsewhere. Full sun. Leaves can be used fresh or dried.

	Saliva officinalis	Sage - Broad Leaf	The leaves of broad leaf sage are grayish-green and have a tempting aroma. Broad leaf sage has a rich, bold, and distinct flavor that works wonderfully in savory dishes. Days to maturity 75 - 95. Spacing 12 - 16". Height 12 - 24"
	Origanum majorana	Sweet Marjoram	Tender perennial herb prized for its aromatic leaves reminiscent of sweet pine and citrus flavors; full sun; average soil; use fresh or dried.
	Thymus vulgaris	Thyme - English	Highly aromatic herb; grows in full sun, somewhat dry soil; self seeds, use also in borders; harvest leaves as needed. Easy to grow heirloom garden staple.
